Audible Studios on Brilliance, United States, 2016. CD-Audio. Book Condition: New. Unabridged. 170 x 135 mm. Language: English . Brand New. Intricately plotted and shimmering with originality, Nikolski charts the curious and unexpected courses of personal migration, and shows how they just might eventually lead us to home. In the spring of 1989, three young people, born thousands of miles apart, each cut themselves adrift from their birthplaces and set out to discover what or who might anchor them in their lives. They each leave almost everything behind, carrying with them only a few artefacts of their lives so far possessions that have proven so formative that they can t imagine surviving without them but also the accumulated memories of their own lives and family histories. Noah, who was taught to read using road maps during a life of nomadic travels with his mother their home being a 1966 Bonneville station wagon with a silver trailer decides to leave the prairies for university in Montreal. But putting down roots there turns out to be a more transitory experience than he expected. Joyce, stifled by life in a remote village on Quebec s Lower North Shore, and her overbearing relatives, hitches a ride into Montreal, spurred on by a news story about a modern-day cyber-pirate and the spirit of her own buccaneer ancestors. While her daily existence remains surprisingly routine working at a fish shop in Jean-Talon market, dumpster-diving at night for necessities it s her Internet piracy career that takes off. And then there s the unnamed narrator, whom we first meet clearing out his deceased mother s house on Montreal s South Shore and who decides to move into the city to start a new life. There he finds his true home among books, content to spend his days...
