Note Child over Statutory Age Injured--Age Not Questioned--No Intention on Part of Mother to Defraud. --By statute, railroad companies were bound to carry by certain trains children under three years of age without charge, and were entitled to half fare for children between three and twelve years of age. Plaintiffs mother carrying in her arms the plaintiff, a child of three years and three months, took a ticket for herself by one of these trains, but did not procure a ticket for the plaintiff. In the course of the journey an accident occurred through the negligence of the defendants, and plaintiff was injured. At the time plaintiffs mother bought her ticket, no question was asked by defendants servants as to the age of the child, and there was no intention on part of the mother to defraud the company. It was held that the company...
